The chart below illustrates the findings from what has been gathered from TUSD’s website information on its elementary and K-8 schools. As is seen, the majority of the elementary and K-8 schools’ websites do not reflect functional Family Engagement Teams. Less than half of the schools’ websites reflect that the school has a functional PTA and almost 27% do not have functional Site-based Councils.

- Family Engagement teams that list administrators and/or staff without including parents are noted as not having a Family Engagement Team. When this is questioned due to lack of identification of parents on the team, a question mark (?) appears in the Family Engagement section of the school.
- Some schools are joining the Site-Based Council with the Family Engagement Team, notwithstanding that the missions/objectives of each are distinct. The focus of the Family Engagement Team is to empower parents to make decisions which impact their children. The minutes of the Site-Based Councils which have been reviewed seldom deal with academic achievement issues; how to better understand the TUSD curriculum and state standards and other applicable topics.
