2019 ANNUAL MULTICULTURAL SYMPOSIUM

Mirrors, Windows, and Sliding Glass Doors: Cultivating Optimal Learning Environments

Books are sometimes windows, that give readers a glimpse into the lives and experiences of others. These windows can also be sliding glass doors, and readers have only to walk through in imagination to become part of whatever world has been created by the author. When lighting conditions are just right, a window can also be a mirror.

Dr. Rudine Sims Bishop (1990)

Literature transforms human experience and reflects it back to us, and in that reflection we can see our own lives and experiences as part of the larger human experience. Reading, then, becomes a means of self-affirmation, and readers often seek their mirrors in books.

Breakout Sessions

- ☐ Language Discourse Patterns and Learning Styles
- ☐ Art as Activism
- ☐ The African American Boys Checklist
- ☐ Engaging in Literacy and Math with your Child
- ☐ Re-Envisioning Mirrors, Windows, and Sliding Glass Doors through SPARKS
- ☐ ...and more

KEYNOTE SPEAKER:

DR. KATHY G. SHORT

Kathy G. Short is a professor of Language, Reading and Culture, in the College of Education, at the University of Arizona. She has worked extensively with teachers to develop curriculum that actively involves students as readers and inquirers. Dr. Short is the Director of Worlds of Words (www.wowlit.org), an initiative to build bridges across global cultures through literature. She was named the 2011 Outstanding Educator of the Language Arts by the National Council of Teachers of English.
